

Back in 1985, 1-year old Kaavan, was brought to Pakistan.

Not sure what
this chain is for.
I feel trapped!

Years are passing and Kaavan is lonely and growing.

Five years later in 1990, a female elephant called Saheli finally arrives.

I'm not sure if she knows what this is all about, but at least I found a companion!

2012 – a sad day for Kaavan.

I can't believe I lost my one and only happy thing –
my beloved Saheli!
Please wake up!

The years go by ...

*I'm so lonely and bored,
I wish somebody would help me!*

After Saheli's death, the people of Pakistan start a protest and a petition to free Kaavan.

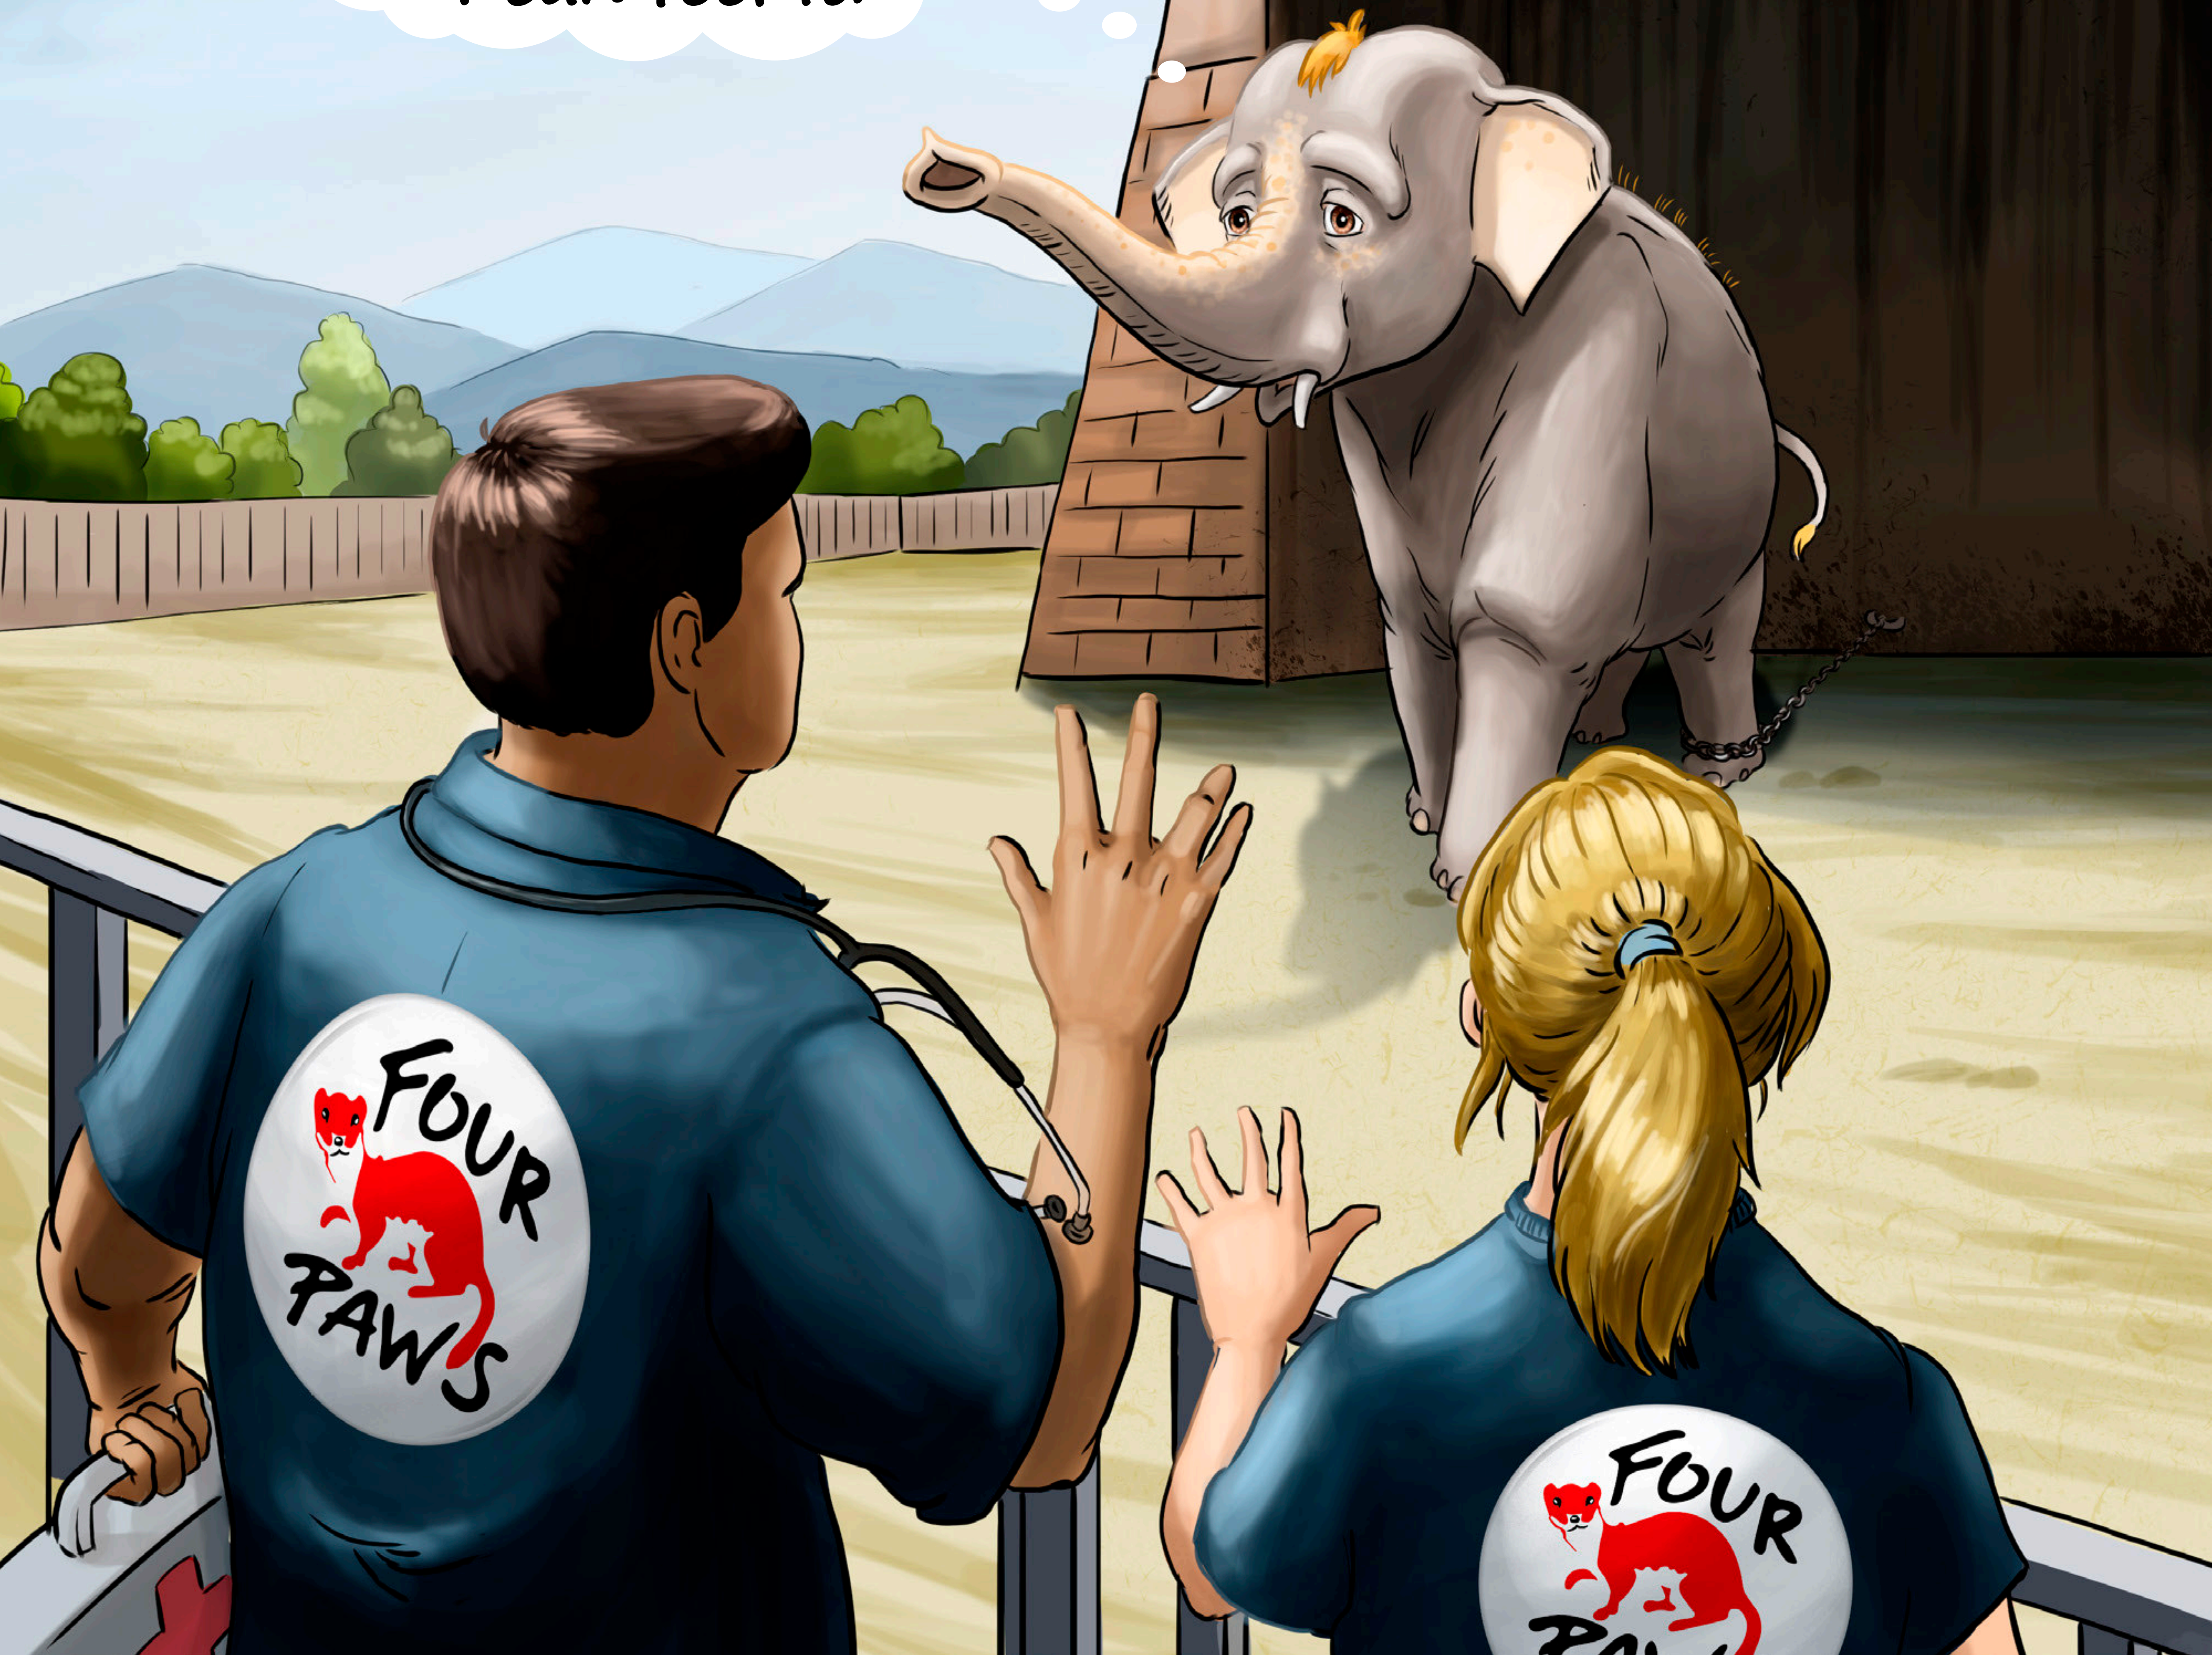

APPROVED!

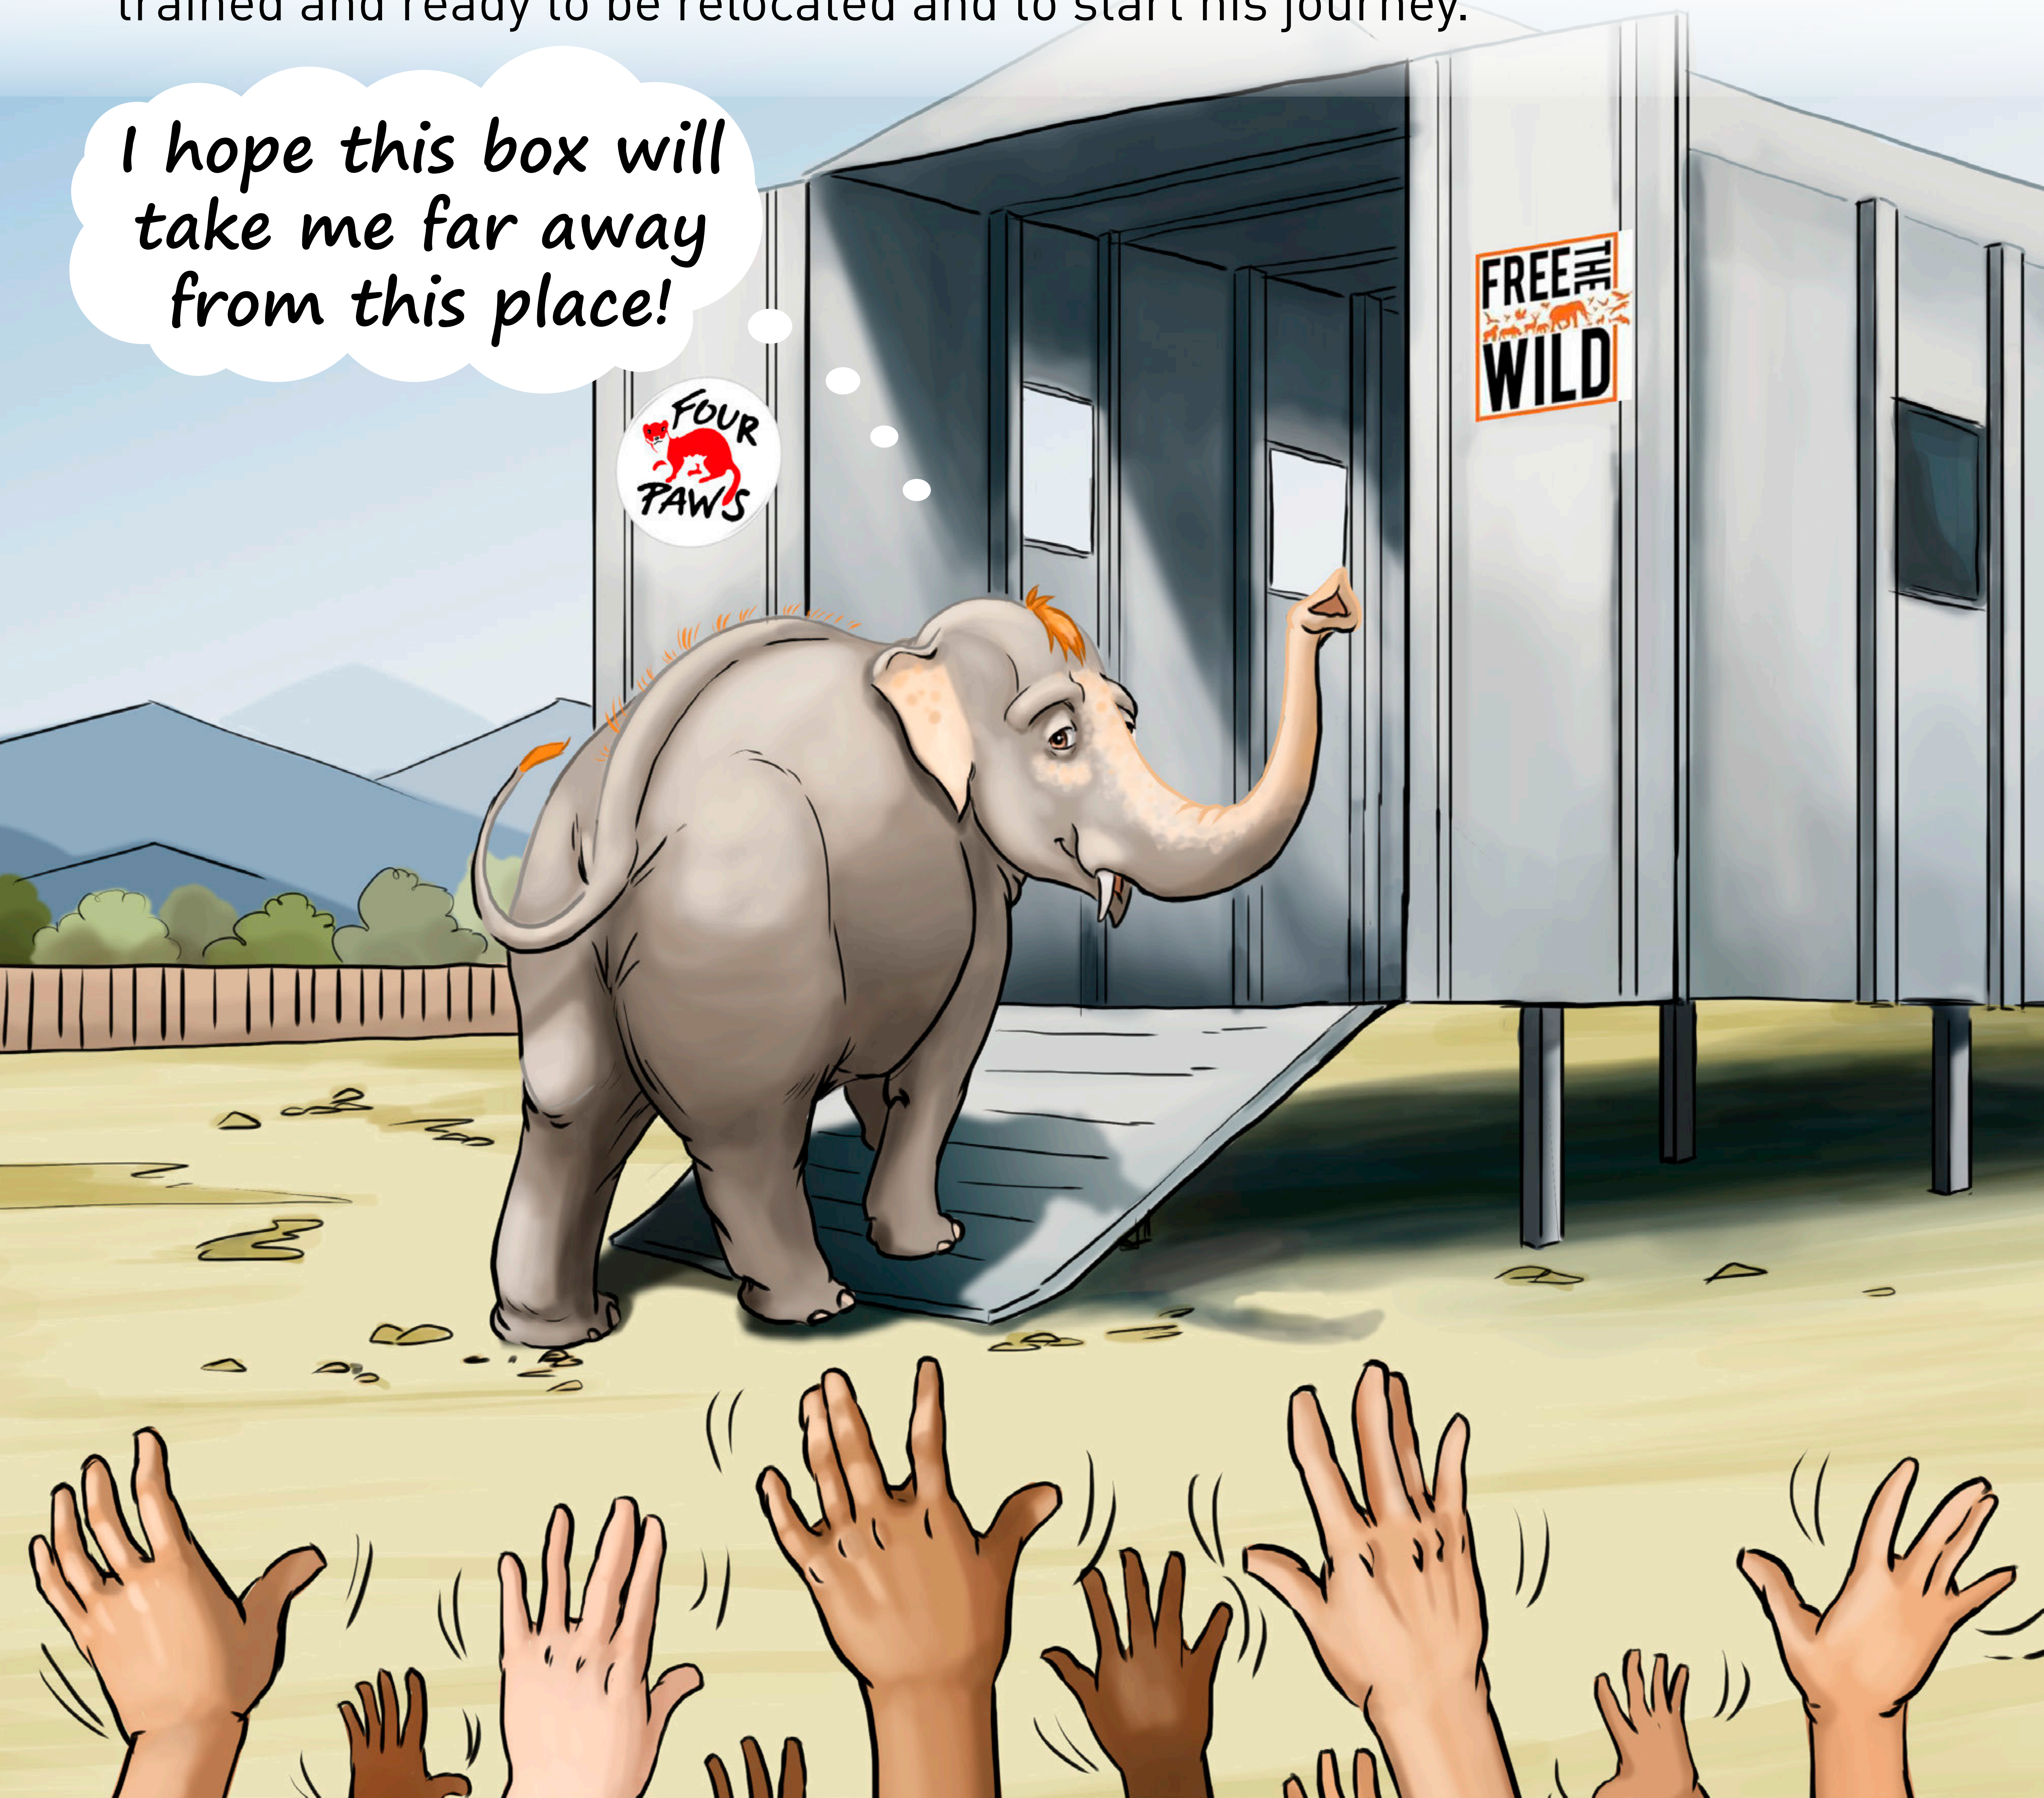

August 2020 – Help is on the way!

Something good
is happening,
I can feel it!

With the experience of FOUR PAWS and the help of the Pakistani community, the IWMB and Free the Wild organisation, Kaavan is trained and ready to be relocated and to start his journey.

I hope this box will take me far away from this place!

Finally the day has come! The loneliest elephant in the world is leaving Pakistan for good!

This is the life Kaavan deserved after many years of being the loneliest elephant in the world.
