Legacy Intention Form for FOUR PAWS in South Africa

This is not a legal document and does not affect your Will in any way. It is merely information about our donors for us to keep on record; specifically, donors who are thinking of, or intend to leave a bequest to FOUR PAWS in their Will.

You can change your mind at any time. It is not necessary to state the value of your intended gift, unless you wish to do so. This is a confidential record, your details and will never be shared with any third parties and the details you'd like to share, are all optional.

Completing this form merely states your intention to nominate FOUR PAWS in South Africa (a registered non-profit (NPO), public benefit organisation (PBO) as a beneficiary in your Will.

FOUR PAWS acknowledges that all bequest intentions are revocable and that any intentions stated here are not binding by law on you or your estate. We remain grateful for your intention and generosity to support us which helps us plan our future work in animal welfare.
