

Dangerous hunt for wild herbs

Family Blum has been on a long hike to collect wild herbs and found many different herbs to make tea and salads. In the evening, the grandmother has a closer look at their baskets filled with herbs from the forest and is shocked: One of the basket contains only poisonous plants and another basket is filled with edible herbs as well as some poisonous ones. At least one of the baskets contains only edible plants.

Whose basket did the grandmother empty right away because of the dangerous herbs?

And from whose basket did family Blum have to pick out the non-edible plants?

Which basket was only filled with good and edible wild herbs?

coltsfoot

goutweed

wood anemone

garlic mustard

foxglove

violet

buttercup

datura

ivy

barberry

dandelion

Johanna

Tom

Alina